

WRITING IN BULLET TIME*Writing in Bullet Time: First Day Handout
Section 0371, Summer A, 2003

Instructor: Brendan Riley

Email: briley@nwe.ufl.edu (Preferred method of contact)

Office phone:

Home phone: 352 335 9442 (Call from 8am - 9pm only)

Campus Mail: Box 117310 (Attn: Brendan Riley)

Mailbox: Turlington 4012

Office: Turlington 4409

(Office hours: T,R,F pd 6 or by appt.)

Class Meetings for section 0371

Monday - Friday, period 5 (2:00 - 3:15pm)

Monday, Wednesday, period 6-7 (3:30 - 6:15pm)

Rolfs 114

Office hours:

Tuesday, Thursday, Friday, period 6 (3:30 - 4:45pm)

Turlington 4409

Introduction

What is new media? How is it different than old media? Has the digital age changed the way we think? Should it change the way we write?

In this course, we will explore the rhetoric of the emerging digital media. We will explore the shift in ways of thinking and writing that is emerging as our culture shifts from print literacy to electracry (what one might call "digital" literacy). We will seek to explore how these new media occasion new ways of thinking, and demand new ways of writing.

Syllabus

The syllabus for this course is on the web. I update the schedule and assignments regularly. Read it carefully. You can find the syllabus at:

<http://www.nwe.ufl.edu/~briley/teaching/sc03/1131/>